PRESIDENT A "FOUNDER" OF PARALYSIS FOUNDATION

Would Create Consumers' Unit

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18 (AP).—Creation of a state consumers' bureau to eliminate harmful drugs and cosmetics from the New York state market, is asked in a bill before the state legislature.

Proposed by Assemblyman Benjamin Brenner, New York city American Laborite, the bureau would prevent food, drugs and cosmetics from being represented as curing or having beneficial effects on sinus infections, venereal diseases, whooping cough, diabetes or gonorrhea.

At the same time the lawmakers received a bill proposing a state foods division designed to seek the most efficient methods of food preparation. The division also would investigate value and standards of foods and establish a code of fair competition for persons engaged in preparing and serving foods, is proposed by Assemblyman Anthony J. Canney.

Lehman Renames Holton V. Noyes

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 18 (AP).—Governor Lehman's reappointment of Holton V. Noyes as state commissioner of agriculture and markets appeared headed today for swift confirmation in the State Senate.

The job pays $12,000 a year. Approval was also predicted for the governor's reappointment of Dr. William J. Tiffany as state commissioner of mental hygiene, also at $12,000 annually. Other nominations transmitted to the Senate last night included reappointment of:

Dr. Hugh M. Cox, New York city, member of the Board of Visitors of the Manhattan State Hospital, and Gerard Swope, New York city, member of the Taconic State Park Commission.

The old-fashioned saloon may have had its iniquities, but it never had a steth with lipstick on the rim.

"Reno Ring" Trial In Gotham, Judge Van Devanter Sits

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—One more crack will be taken tomorrow at the "Reno ring," an alleged confidence racket combination that government men call the tightest, toughest and biggest in the country.

Twice before, federal attorneys have attempted to convict the men who, they contend, made Reno, Nev., the kind of a "right town" that a successful syndicate of bunco steers requires. Twice the jury disagreed.

So today, the scene was being set again. The locale will be a United States district court room in downtown Manhattan.

On the bench will be Willis Van Devanter, retired justice of the U. S. supreme court. Two new attorneys will take their place on the government's side of the counsel table, William Power Maloney and W. Mahlon Dickerson, assistants to the U. S. attorney.

Buttressing their presentation will be a familiar figure in the case, E. P. Carville, U. S. attorney for Nevada. Opposite them, at the head of the defense staff again will be John Taaffe, vigorous San Francisco criminal lawyer.

The defendants, five of the 23 men originally indicted, will be William J. Graham, James C. McKay, Thomas O'Dell, Frank Bailey and Boles Head.

Lean, slow-talking, sandy-haired Bill Graham and the shorter, darker Jim McKay, owners of night clubs and gambling houses and of the Stockade in Reno's licensed vice district, are accused in the government's mail fraud and conspiracy charges of providing a banking service—a "right job," as the con men say—for the ring, taking 15 per cent of the proceeds and furnishing protection in return.

Ex-heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey may be called to the stand again. He was previously an alibi witness.

Father and Son Night Monday at Rondout Lodge

Monday evening was Father and Son Night at Rondout Lodge, No. 343, F. & A. M., when the fathers were accompanied to lodge by their sons and the members of the Order of the DeMolay were also guests of the lodge.

In spite of the inclement weather there was a large attendance of fathers and sons and W. Kenneth Kukuk, master of the lodge, who was presiding at his first session as master, had arranged an attractive program for the evening.

Following the regular lodge session a social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Officer Howard Kinch of the Kingston police department was the guest speaker of the evening and delivered a most instructive and interesting talk on finger printing of which he has made a study. Officer Kinch demonstrated with the aid of some of the members of the lodge how finger prints were taken and how they were classified.

Following Officer Kinch's interesting talk several reels of movies were shown by Henry Millonig, Jr., a former master of the lodge.

The next meeting of the lodge will be on Monday, February 7, when the entered apprentice degree will be conferred. An interesting speaker will also talk and as an innovation "Pipe Night" will be staged.

FLASHES OF LIFE SKETCHED IN BRIEF

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS

Burning Up
New Haven, Conn.—Everyone agreed that the goal fired by Red Young in a hockey match was a "hot shot."
Not only did the puck skim squarely into the net but on its way it grazed the hip pocket of Goalie Red Ward and set fire to a box of matches he was carrying.

Goalie Ward, who beat out the flames with his gloves, estimated the damage was slight—but painful.

Thund
Washington, Ind.—An unidentified gunman was discouraged by two rebuffs within five minutes.

Last night he made William Ewart Beck hand over two pocketbooks. Both were empty.

Then he threatened to kill Louis H. Keith, who told him, "you aren't man enough."

The bandit fled.

No Paper, No Eat
Portland, Ore.—The printers' strike has put Dixie on strike, too—hunger strike.

Dixie is a Boston terrier belonging to W. Carey Jennings, radio station manager. Before the strike closed Portland's three newspaper plants, part of the morning ritual was a dash for the morning paper. Then she ate.

Knowing no paper would be delivered, Jennings refused to let Dixie out. Dixie aulked in a corner, refused to eat.

Careful, Please
Kansas City—Mrs. Frank Klimes almost broke up the veterinarians' dinner.

She pulled her pet skunk from under her coat and explained it "needs an operation."

The doctors shied, but she explained a previous operation had left the animal odorous.

The dinner continued, but the operation was delayed.

ARREST VIOLATORS OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

A. L. Vaughan, district inspector bureau of weights and measures, at Middletown, in his campaign against violators of the weights and measures laws, made arrests and secured convictions in 20 cases during the December period. Of those arrested, two were from Kingston, who were delivering coal. Fines imposed were up to $50.

Would Increase Jurisdiction
Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 18 (AP).—Presidents of ninety state Kiwanis clubs sent to the Legislature today a recommendation that the jurisdiction of children's courts be increased from 16 to 18 years. "In civil matters," William Godson of New Rochelle said, "we realize a person is not capable of handling his own affairs until he becomes 21. On the criminal side, we label a youngster of 16 or 17 a criminal." The recommendation was adopted at a two-day session of the club presidents which concluded here yesterday.

Wilbur Church To Hold Minstrel

Sunday night the young people of Holy Name parish, Wilbur, held a meeting to plan for a minstrel show, and Gus Steigerwald was elected to coach the cast during the rehearsals the first of which will be held tonight at 8 o'clock. All of the young people of the parish are invited to be present.

Raw Throat?

Here's Quick Action!

Kill the cold germs that attack your throat and cause miserable coughs. At the first sign of "raw" throat, gargle with Zonite. Zonite is 93 times more active, by standard laboratory tests, than any other popular cold remedy—alcohol. And Zonite soothes your throat.

Get Zonite at once. Gargle immediately—1 teaspoon Zonite to half glass water. Will soothe throat before it spreads UP into sinuses or DOWN into bronchial tubes. You'll feel relief after the first gargle with Zonite.

JAPAN'S MICK OUT

The Japanese army's victorious
almost everywhere in China, are involved more and more deeply.
A war council decides to go ahead with the conquest. They have proved that they can defeat Chi nese armies and take cities and ports, but it is not yet clear that they can do more than that. They may be going the way of a great
dynasty, or the way of destruction.
From present indications, we might say it's a toss up. The ob vious line of attack at Tokyo sug gests that Japanese statesmen themselves may think so. But the doubters realize that they couldn't withstand now and "ave face."

Late news from portents.
The fed Chinese army, big and
bold and filled in irregular warfare,
is reported on the loose in northern China. The Japanese have the railway lines but their control extends only a few miles back. Beyond, armed and discipl ined Communists and the Chi nese militia operating with them
are said to control everything.
They fade away at the approach of war planes and tanks, and silently
return when those perils disap pear. They have plenty of machine guns and cartridges. They live on the land as they go. They boast that they can harass the in vaders for years. If they can,
where is Japan's victory? If the Chinese spirit continues as high
as it is today, the great conquest
may turn to ashes.

DRIVERS UP FRONT

In three years more, Henry Ford says, he'll have his automo bile engine in the rear. He is ex perimenting with it now. Many changes have to be made, and it takes time. When the change is accomplished, what practical effect will it have? Most people probably think first of getting rid of the heat and smell in front of the car.
It should make driving cooler and sweeter. But Mr. Ford is think ing of something more important.
He says people will drive better.

That will come partly from bet ter visibility. In most cars as they are built now, a driver of aver age height cannot see the road
in front of him except at a dis tance. It makes driving some what blind, and interferes with maneuvering the car. More than that, Mr. Ford prophesies, "People will drive a lot more carefully and less selfishly when they find them selves sitting up in front where they'll have to see those bumps
if they're coming."

BIGGEST STAR

We don't have about as
things in our country, our earth
and our solar system, but we
"ain't seen nothing yet." Our sun, center of this neat little bunch of planets, is "some pumpkins," be ing more than a million miles in diameter. But a star observed and studied by Dr. Otto Struve,
director of the Yerkes Observatory
in Wisconsin, could swallow our whole solar system without notice
ing it.

The star, named Epsilon Auricae, and so far away it's in visible to the naked eye, is so big
that its diameter is 2,000 times
that of our sun, and it fills more space than 29 billion suns like ours rolled into one. It's the lar gest star yet discovered. And there may be still bigger ones in the universe. It's good for us egotistic human mites to be brought up against a fact like this once in a while.

A NOBLE LADY'S LESSON

A British duchess had a little run-in with the police in London
the other day which reveals much about British democracy and law observance, not to mention how things and customs change. The duchess was driving on Piccadilly
the day of a royal progress.

She stopped on the wrong side of traffic, waiting a chance to turn right into a side street.
Up came an officer, told her she was holding up a line of traffic
and ordered her to proceed straight ahead. "I don't want to go that way," said the duchess.
"I am not going. I shall light it in court. You are a nasty man
I will ask the officer over there."
The second officer agrees with the first. The duchess finally gave in and went where she was told to go, but true to her threat
she sought it in court. She com plained that the officers were
"unfair and unreasonable," "no
very unhelpful and unwell," and so on. But the magistrate didn't seem to get her point. He fined her 15 shillings for her infraction
of the traffic rules.

This all happened to the Duchess of Rutland, whose an cestor, the seventh Duke of Rut
land, about a hundred years ago,
wrote: "Let wealth and com merce, laws and learning die, but leave us still our old nobility."
Laws haven't died yet in Eng land, least of all traffic laws.

LIVER IS GREAT PROVIDER

I have written so much and so often about the liver that my readers may think I am too much
"liver-minded." Yet when I re member that the liver has been rightfully called the "king of the organs" I realize that nothing I could write touches the health of my readers to the same extent as
the liver.

As mentioned before the liver is
the largest organ in the body, contains at least one-quarter of the blood in the body, manufactures
bile for breaking up fats, killing off harmful organisms, and adding bowel movements (Nature's) purgative, stores up sugar for future needs, supplies some of the substances forming the blood,
filters poisons out of the blood,
and does other useful duties in the body. It is not to be wondered at therefore that with all these forms
of work so many individuals have a little trouble with their liver.
And this little trouble is usually
due to eating meals that are too
large, or meals containing too
much fat and starch foods.

The other reason for having a little trouble with the liver is lack of exercise of the trunk or body
—not enough bending and twist
ing to squeeze the liver and body
—its circulation, and not enough
general exercise to make the low er part of the lungs go down and squeeze the floor of the chest
against the liver lying beneath it.
It is certainly of great interest
to all of us to have Dr. P. C.
Mann, Mayo Clinic, in the Amer ican Journal of Digestive Diseases and Nutrition, refer to the liver as the commissariat (provisions and transport of an army) of the body.
Dr. Mann believes that he has col lected sufficient evidence to show
the importance of the liver in maintaining a constant supply of "usable" food for the body. "The liver can be considered as a large
"storage" and "manufacturing"
plant constantly teeming with ac tivity." Through and by means of its cells are transported the var ious materials on which the tissues
of the body must rely for their
source of energy, growth, and re pair, and for maintaining the pro cesses of life. Surely the liver can be called the "provider" of the body.

Remember, the liver can usually be kept in good condition by a little daily exercise and eating less
at each meal even if more meals
are eaten.

DARE TO DREAM

BY ALICE MARIE DODGE

Chapter 37
Eternal Adventure

IN San Francisco, Nelda plunged
energetically into her shopping.
First she bought her school clothes.
Then she looked at formal. Final ly she chose one in peacock blue
shades that emphasized the beauty
of her creamy skin, her dark eyes
and hair.

Strangely, though, the realiza tion wasn't nearly as thrilling as the anticipation had been. For some reason she was restless, un
easy.

Nelda was more weary from wishing that Bill hadn't proposed
to her than she was from shopping.
Why did she have to hurt him after he'd been so wonderful to her? Ever since she'd met him there was something about his quietness,
even his naivete, that gave her strength. Fine way she had repaid him. She wished fervently that she hadn't stopped that day he waved
from his front yard. The expression in his blue eyes and about his strong-cut, tender mouth haunted
her. It told her more plainly than words could have done that his arms and legs were hungry for her.
She was a picture of girlish love liness when she stood in front of the mirror that night. She turned this way and that to get the full ef fect of the ravishing blue gown,
then stepped back to view her
twinkling feet.

All at once her spirit sagged. She felt as if she were on the verge of tears, prodding herself to accom plish something she had set out to do and which she found not at all to her liking. She shouldn't be like this.

Reck arrived at eight-thirty.
Nelda was alone in the big living room when he came in.

"You're beautiful," he said and advanced as if he was going to kiss
her.

She found herself drawing away
from him. He looked at her in sur prise, but he made no comment.

Outside she saw that he had come in his own car instead of a taxi as they'd planned.

"Then you didn't take the train
to the city?" she exclaimed.

"Mother wanted to do some shopping."

"Oh, she came with you?"

"She decided at the last minute
to come."

They lapsed into silence. Nelda noticed that he was nervous. She didn't ask what troubled him. It seemed that only her body was there, riding beside him, and that her mind and spirit were else where.

She was in the first dance with him when she caught a glimpse of Vivian Nelson in an apple green
frocks that seemed designed espe cially for her blonde beauty. A stained look leaped into her eyes
when her glance fell upon Nelda,
but it passed quickly.

Reck danced the next dance with the blonde girl, Nelda, dancing with V. Nelson. Nelda was talk ing eagerly to Reck who looked uncomfortable.

A COUPLE of dances later Nelda
detected that he was indulging too strongly in liquor and she cau tioned him about it.

"Don't nag me," he growled. "I know what I'm doing."

He didn't return from the bar to claim her for the next number he was to have had with her. To hide her embarrassment, she went to the powder room. She found Mrs.
Reckless there, seated before a mirror, patting her perfectly coif ed hair. Somehow Nelda had the sensation the woman had been there before, knowing that some time during the evening she, Nelda,
would come to the room.

"Oh—how do you do, Mrs.
Reckless," she stammered.

"How do you do?" There was no
mistaking the coldness in the woman's face.

In silence Nelda sat down and
dusted her cheeks with powder.
What she thought, did she and Mrs. Reckless have to say to each other? What would they ever have to say to each other?

"Where is Earl?" the woman in quired, frost on her voice.

"Downstairs."

"In the bar?"

"I don't know," Nelda caught back a shrug. She didn't seem to care where Earl was.

The poor boy is probably trying to muster up courage to talk to you."

"Courage?"

"He's going to tell you tonight
that he wants the engagement broken." Mrs. Reckless stated brutally.

Nelda was for the moment struck
dumb with astonishment and showed it. She simply couldn't keep her mouth from dropping open when she started. The shock was caused more by the expression in Mrs. Reckless's face than by her announcement. She thought she had never seen such hatred on a human countenance before. She realized then that Mrs. Reckless always hated her.

"He was through with you that time he caught you grubbing in the field with common laborers," Mrs.
Reckless went on. "But you had to coax him back."

"You are mistaken, Mrs. Reck less."

MILTON

Milton, Jan. 17.—No tax is being collected this year for the Milton light district. Funds in the district treasury had ac cumulated sufficiently to run its affairs for this year so that ap proximately $2,000 can be saved
Milton tax payers. This $2,000
helps to lower the town's budget $10,000 in comparison with last year's budget. Total to be col lected in the town of Marlborough
for town and county are $6-480.45 less than last year. The town's proportion of county tax
is less than last year though its town tax is less.

The annual meeting of the Sarah Hull Hallow Library Board
was held on Wednesday after noon. Mrs. Grover Ferguson was elected president of the board to succeed Miss Lulu Clark. Miss Clark had served in that capacity
with constant efficiency for 10 years. She was given a rising vote of thanks by her co-workers.

Other officers elected were: First vice president, Frances Kaley;
second vice president, Mrs. Win field Bailey; treasurer, Mrs. Wil liam Rhodes; secretary, Mrs.
Phoebe Vail. Mrs. Vail, Mrs.
Bailey and Mr. Kaley were re elected trustees for three years.

Miss Caroline Sears, librarian,
gave a general report for the year which will be published later. Although $500 was ap propriated by the town for the maintenance of the library this amount is not sufficient. There fore there will be benefits from time to time for this purpose.

The board made plans on Wed nesday for a card party to be held in the Grange hall Friday eve ning, February 11. The com mittees are as follows: Refresh

J. J. Kaley, announced last week
that he is taking up the grocery business which his father had left after 45 years of service to the people of Milton. Mr. Kaley
is assuming the establishment
under the same name, J. J.
Kaley, which was established in 1893.

Monday afternoon at 2
o'clock, under the auspices of the Home Bureau, there was a detailed demonstration in bedside care in pneumonia. The meeting was open to all interested. The demonstrations were in charge of Miss Minna Strohman, town
nurse.

The Ladies' Aid meeting held

Customary groups were chosen to aid in raising funds for the ensu

IT'S ODD
But It's Science

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE
UP Science Editor

Ithaca, N. Y.—Science now has solved the problem of which side
of the bed to sleep on in the case of a Cornell professor.

In the winter the side of the bed facing the north wall of his home always has seemed colder
than the other side. The north wall is cold, not so much because it faces north, as because it faces
outdoors.

His wife preferred the south side of the bed. So did the profes sor, but he let her have the warm

side.

Then scientific study of radia tion of walls showed the north side of the professor's bed actually was colder. Its heat radiated into the cold wall faster than heat
from the wife's side into the warmer wall.

Now, radiated heat is exactly like light, though it's invisible. It reflects from a polished surface
just like light.

The professor hung on a couple of sheets of aluminum foil be tween the bed and the cold wall.
The foil is only a thousandth of an inch thick, but it reflects the heat
the professor loses right back at
him. Now his side of the bed is as warm as the wife's.

Man About
Manhattan

By GEORGE YUCER

NEW YORK—Question:
"Central Park is an inland lake of oxygen and light. With its zoo, and monkey-house, and chil dren's boats, Central Park is to the New York child everything that the Tulleries Gardens are to the Paris child. It ought to be seen in winter with its rough grass, the toy-like bears in its little zoo, the blue noses of the children riding
their ponies, the gleaming skating-pools where the brightly colored children are circling as they do in the paintings of the minor Dutch masters. One should wander a through it on summer nights when the exhausted crowds, bemused
with heat and suffocated in the narrow streets, come up there to wait for the morning and the cool
ness of dawn whilst the firemen
spray the naked street-urchins
with their hoses."—Paul Morand.

"Acting is largely a trick of the Hiawatha."—Alice Brady.

"I think it humorously ironic
that the headquarters for both the I.W.W. and the Soviets are located on that most prominent of all capi talistic streets—Fifth Avenue."— Noel Thornton.

"CERTAIN PEOPLE who profess
to be my very best friends
persist in loading me down with boxes of costly cigars at Christmas and on my birthday when they know very well that I never smoke
cigars nor have I any intention of ever smoking them. As a conse quence I now have to go to the trouble of going all the way down to the tobacco shop in the lobby of the building where my office is lo cated to exchange them for my fa vorite brand of cigarettes."—Rich

type of beauty and the answer to the correct dress and make-up problems will bring it out. But one

Helena Rubinstein.

"NO CATHOLIC is so devout as a Protestant who has been converted to the Catholic faith
and no New Yorker is one-tenth so smug as the outlander who moves to the city and adopts it for his own. Hearing them talk reminds one of small boys boasting of miniature castles heavily par
aphrased with toy soldiers."—Abner

PIEMAKING CHAMP BOASTS MANY KINDS

Concocts 180 Varieties Out of Cherries Alone.

Toronto.—Monroe Boston Strause, at a salary of $100 a day, is telling a chain of Toronto sandwich shops how to make pies more inviting to the public palate.

Strause eats pie all the time and his waistline has not suffered from his gustatory exploits which earned him the title of world's champion pie-maker. He has won so many pie contests and created so many new kinds of pie that he can't remember them all.

He claims to have originated "chiffon" pies and said he held the secret for four years before it became "public knowledge." He made a fortune out of the recipe while it lasted and traveled 30,000 miles in one year to show hotels and restaurants how to make them. He averages that distance every year.

Out of a job in Los Angeles, his home town, he heard about a $25,000 prize offered for the best pie made in California. He went to the baker at a prominent hotel with a proposal and they divided the $25,000.

"Pie is swell food," says Strause. "I eat seeds of it. I have a good complexion and marvelous digestion. I always tell people who say pie gives them indigestion to try eating pie first and the rest of the meal last. They get indigestion just the same, but if they eat only the pie they don't. It's overloading that gives them the pains, not the pie."

Nobody knows how many kinds of pie there are, says the pie king. "I think up new ones every few days, usually while I'm standing watching a baker work. Out of cherries and pineapple I made 360 kinds in one test. Out of cherries alone I made 180."

Strause believes that bakers make the best pies. Mother was good, but not as consistent. The pie champion "sneaked" his pies into a score of big contests and in every case won from the amateurs. In Chicago he won a contest in which 2,546 pies were entered.

You cannot change Strause's mind about it—as a dessert pie is "tops."

Indian Princess Learns Archery at University

Salem, Ore.—Sitting Bull's granddaughter had to enroll in college to learn to shoot a bow and arrow. The kinwoman of the Sioux Indian chief who fought Custer to the "last stand" in southeastern Montana in recent history is now a senior in Willamette university here.

The young princess from Culbertson, Mont., has displaced her Indian name, "Waste Agidwahn," for the simple title of Evelyn Welsh. Her Indian name translated means "Bring Pretty," or, more literally, that some day she must do something to bring honor and distinction to her tribe.

Miss Welsh has been prominent in Willamette student life. She is national historian of Daleth Yeth Gimmel organization for independent women; was twice president of the university's international club, and takes active part in all choir and glee club activities.

Although her mother is of German descent and her father part French, she considers the Sioux tribe her people. Miss Welsh was reared on a large Montana cattle ranch where she learned to shoot and ride.

Sly, Long-Legged Turkey Is Back in West Virginia

Charleston, W. Va.—The long-legged variety of turkey—one of the big reasons why the Pilgrims were thankful—is reappearing in West Virginia.

The state conservation commission has liberated more than 3,200 of these birds in the state game preserves during the last three years. The birds are exceptionally cunning and seem to have a knack of evading the hunter. Twelve nimrods were set loose this season under the surveillance of game protectors, but only six were able to bring down one of the turkeys.

Home Institute MODERN LIFE GIVES YOU "NERVES"? Conquer by Turning "Nerves" to Charm

This high-gear modern age is getting to be too much for Sheila's sensitive nerves.

Will she be one of the shattered neurotics whose number is so rapidly increasing today?

Or will she do an about-face and become one of the successful neurotics by learning how to direct her high-strung nature into vitality and charm?

Instead of being crushed by modern life, the neurotic who has her imagination, her sensitive reactions under control gets much more out of it than is possible for a placid, plodding person of no nerves.

And it is really simple to do an about-face when you look at your own life. Perhaps the cause of your tension and irritability may be what the psychiatrists call a love reaction. Often this has nothing to do with romance, but refers to some great interest which marriage or a job caused you to drop.

Revive this interest! Find time for it. If it's music, join a music club. If it's books, read though the ceiling falls in. Feed this whelphing of your being and your inner self is soothed, your outer self glows with a new radiance.

Sometimes your edginess and your nervous headaches come from a failure to protect yourself against too many claims on you.

Make it a rule to relax—completely alone one hour a day. Don't wait until you're ready to scream before you let go. Build up the reserve strength to meet your problems with the fact and charm that endears you to all.

Pearl Is Too Large to Suit Its Owner
Bombay.—On the shore near Darwin an Australian seaman recently discovered a pearl so large that it is doubtful he will be able to dispose of it.
Perfect in shape and color, the gem is larger than a pigeon egg. It is too large for a ring, and cannot be matched for a necklace. Thus far Indian dealers have refused to set a value on it.

EMPIRE FOR A LADY

BY ALAN LEMAY

The girl's presence here was incredible, yet she was more real than the jungle, the sea, the throbbing war drums.

Chapter One

A Girl From Another World

IT WAS impossible to believe that she was there, whenever I looked away from her. Beyond the motionless bowsprit of the little ship lay the flat, blazing salt water of the bay of Balinggog; beyond that, the jungle hemming the food mouth of the Siderong river. And from all through the foothills and the jungle and the river was coming the tireless, dissonant beat of Dyak agongs, singing war, and hatching blood hunger. Nothing about the land or the sea would let you forget for a moment that you were in the deep tropics of Asiatic waters—half way between Borneo and Australia, in that maze of 10,000 ark-skinned islands some of whose waters still lie uncharted.

Incredible that an English girl of 20 should be there, sitting in a folding officer's chair under the yawl's afterdeck awning. Every time I heard her low voice it was with a repeated sense of bafflement, of disbelief.

Yet she was there, and we were all acutely aware of her—more conscious of her than of the agongs or the brassy sea, or of our own ship, the Linkang, which lay at anchor six chains away. And she was real—very real.

In the fantastic dream which is my memory of Balinggog, Christine Forrester stands out as more actual than any other thing. Plain together that others were watching the Malays, and smell the burnt-up him his blank expression forced upon me a chuckle out of me—he seemed so disarmed, so unaccustomedly at deadly than his kris. But those things, and not the English girl, are what seem unreal.

As she sat that day under the awning of the afterdeck, the picture of her is very clear. I see the little pulse in her throat, and the grave steadiness of her eyes, and her slim straight fingers. She remains as real as the tarred beams, or the scent of gunga blossoms from over the flat salt water.

At first, though, her presence was bewildering. Two years in Asiatic waters had accustomed me to many things. When you go new out there it is very hard to realize that so much of the world can remain so little known. To a landowner or a Gloucesterman, the part of the Pacific is a full 10,000 miles from home, and you are locked to find that you can trade to a Dyak because he wants to use it in decorating a human skull.

But presently you begin to see reasons. The Pacific is a big place, with more than 30,000 islands in one great belt which swings a good 3,000 miles across the South Seas. And the simple fact is that we have known nothing of this vast maze because we have not sailed until lately that there was anything there to steal. I got used to the idea that there are whole groups of islands where it is unsafe for any vessel to go; and even those islands lost their strangeness when they became the fabric of my day life.

But now the presence of an English girl very actually drinking tea in the bay of Balinggog brought all that first strangeness back. Here were two exactly opposite worlds set side by side, and I did not seem possible that both of them could be.

Baffled

JAMES CLYDE, my uncle, showed his bewilderment. For years he had known the vessel. But as I had gathered from his occasional frivolous references to it, in all that time Clyde had regarded it simply as the hobby of an uncompanionable Englishman with a class-ey curiosity about strange peoples. Now the AVE had changed in ways that did not explain themselves, and baffled me, was permanent, of wood. It was a luxury, all right. Coarse screens of finely split bamboo were made fast around the rail, reeled on the shade side, but let down to kill the glare on the sun side. With canvas chairs and some little teak-wood tables set out there, it was nothing like the poop of a ship at all, but more like the veranda of some club, overhanging the water.

And now tea things were set out on the little tables. There were thin China cups, and a long-spouted silver teapot and pitcher steeply canted on their bases as they are made by the silver workers of India. When I looked at those things I didn't believe in Dyaks myself, though I suppose I have seen hundreds of thousands.

'A Big Boil-up'

"BUT I am trying to tell you," Clyde was insisting, "that you are absolutely not all right. I've been in these islands for 10 years, and I've never heard so many drums and gongs together in one place. There's smoke hanging over the jungle along a shoreline of eight miles. You're anchored hard against a big boil-up of Dyak tribes on the wild loose. At war. If you have eyes and ears at all you should know that."

Robert Forrester said with reserve, "I hardly think they're out after us."

"And I'm trying to explain to you that that makes no difference," Clyde kept on, grave and patient. "When a Dyak war party turns loose they'll raid and loot and pirate anything that they can handle—and there are enough of them across the bay to tackle a first-class ship. My vessel is easily sloop of war. My vessel is easily sloop of war. My vessel is easily sloop of war."

Robert Forrester turned and looked across the water at Clyde's three-master, the Linkang. She was a converted whaler, bluff and high in the counters. She carried as heavy an armament as her crew could man—two three pounders and a big enough to knock a prau out of the water—and a long six-pound swivel mounted amidships, where the tryworks had been. She was by no means safe in Balinggog bay, but she represented all the precautions we could reasonably take. Robert Forrester, though, did not seem to like the comparison. I thought he was about to dispute the matter with my uncle, but he did not.

Instead, he spoke with an unmistakable air of summing up the situation before dismissing us. "I've already told you, Captain Clyde, that we also have important business here. As I mentioned before, it's our intention to trade for pearls. We came here for that purpose, and we expect to remain here until it is carried out."

Plainly, my uncle wanted to swear at him, but he held himself back. "Think what is likely to happen to you," he urged. "It's a wonder to me that they haven't swarmed over you already."

"They are scarcely alone in that," said the blonde young man suavely. "My uncle passed over it. 'You can't count on them—not even for one more night. There must be enough war praus in the Siderong to cover this bay like a mat. If a single Dyak chief sends out his praus, just to look you over, the rest will turn it into a race for the loot. When that happens, nothing under heaven can save you.'"

John Reo Held On First Degree Murder Charges

Mincola, N. Y., Jan. 18 (AP).—John Reo, 40, broke early today after 36 hours of steady questioning and, District Attorney Edward J. Neary announced, confessed slaying Mrs. Lenida Waite, 50-year-old widow, and Jeanne Schuettlin, 19, her neighbor, in Long Island's "motiveless murders."

Reo, a distant relative of Mrs. Waite, was locked up on charges of first degree murder.

Neary said Reo, 40 years old, small, slim with graying hair, confessed after being permitted to talk privately with a friend, Mrs. Florence Termond, 40, of Lyndhurst, N. J.

Mrs. Termond was held as a material witness. Neary said both would be arraigned later today before District Court Judge Samuel Greason in Hempstead, Long Island.

The district attorney said the motive for the crime was still obscure.

"Reo was angry at Mrs. Waite for some reason," Neary said, "and killed the girl to prevent her from becoming a witness against him."

The bodies of Mrs. Waite and Miss Schuettlin, each shot through the head and bound with silk stockings, were found in the Waite home in Elmont, a Long Island village bordering the Belmont Park race track, last Wednesday.

Reo had been questioned without intermission since he was picked up Sunday at a West 15th street rooming house in New York. The search for Reo began after George Waite, the widow's son, told police the former Lyndhurst, N. J., filling station operator had threatened him and his mother with death last Thanksgiving Day.

Reo, a former boarder at the Waite home, had moved shortly before then, Waite said, after a quarrel with members of the household.

Port Ewen Scouts Enjoyed Addresses

The Boy Scouts of Troop 26, Port Ewen held a supper at their troop room in the basement of the Reformed Church on Friday evening.

Splendid as the supper was the boys impatiently awaited the fulfillment of J. P. Beichert's promise to interview at one of their monthly suppers Charlie Husta and Tiny Hearn of the Kingston professional basketball team. Mr. Beichert conducted a quiz which brought out many historical and technical facts of basketball and also many highly entertaining experiences of these two players. At the close of the interview the boys were particularly thrilled to ask questions of these recognized port authorities regarding the same.

Eugene Freer, chairman of the Boy Scout Council, spoke to the boys on the advantage of keeping oneself physically fit, drawing a fine example from the two basketball players, Mr. Husta and Mr. Hearn. He also used as illustration in this connection the life of Wiley Post, describing Mr. Post's round-the-world flight as told to Mr. Freer by Wiley Post himself. The description of the flight was so realistic one of the boys remarked that "you could almost feel yourself up there flying."

The boys were glad to have as another guest Sam Bernstein, who has proven to be a good friend to Troop 26. Mr. Bernstein congratulated the boys on the work they were doing and told them how invaluable were the advantages of scouting to any boy.

Considerable credit for the success of the evening is due Ralston Munson, who showed several reels of motion pictures bringing to a close the second monthly supper held by Troop 26.

Committee members present were Alanson Short, Robert Clark, John Reynolds and Richard Sleight, with Scoutmaster Frank Pallen and Assistant Scoutmasters Jack Splinterweber and George Clark.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

All Stocks Lost Ground Monday

The administration's warfare against holding companies would be given added power, it was learned yesterday, if the tax bill now under consideration by the House is passed in its present form. The bill submitted by the House ways and means subcommittee after careful coaching and coaxing by the White House and treasury department, increases the intercorporate dividend tax, thus increasing the pressure for holding company dissolution.

This detail of the bill was one not immediately noticed when publicity was first given to the bill.

Stocks lost ground all along the line Monday. In a 930,000 share market, industrial issues lost 1.82 points, closing at 132.49 on the Dow-Jones averages; the rails were off 0.52 point, to 21.81, and utilities, probably reflecting the holding company agitation, declined 0.80 point, to 29.95—lowest since 1935. Corporate bonds were lower. The Paris bourse was irregular, London and American markets quiet.

Wheat was steady, cotton easier, rubber and hides moved lower.

The Steel Institute schedules operations for this week at 29.3 of capacity, up two points from the preceding week.

Although U. S. Steel is thought by some to have shown a loss in operations during the last three months of 1937, it is said that earnings for the whole year were substantially ahead of those for 1936.

General Tire & Rubber's earnings for year ended November 20 are estimated at around $800,000, or about $1.20 a share, compared with $1,291,011, or $2.18 a share in preceding year.

Creole Petroleum's earnings are expected to set a record. In 1937 the company earned $8,596,448, or $1.23 a share.

Detroit Edison earned $7.82 a share for year ended December 31, compared with $8.39 a share in preceding year.

A bill, sponsored by the SEC and providing for registration of acting business over-counter, was introduced in the Senate yesterday.

Business loans of member banks in 101 leading cities declined $16,000,000 in week ended January 12; holdings of direct governments were up $41,000,000.

Loose-Wiles Biscuit declared a dividend of 30 cents on common, compared with three 50-cent and one 10-cent payment last year.

Hollander, fur house, directors decided to omit dividend on capital stock, which ordinarily would have been paid February 15.

"The millions of investors who own the shares of great corporations" and "the millions or more of the life insurance holders and of savings banks depositors" are the people—rather than a few well-to-do individuals—who furnish capital for and are dependent upon the prosperity of our great businesses," Thomas W. Lamont declared yesterday.

Silver Lustreware Made in Italy, Spain, Persia

Lustreware was made hundreds of years ago in Italy and Spain and for hundreds of years before that in Persia. It is not known where the Persians acquired the art, but it is possible that they themselves discovered the process of applying a wash of silver or copper to earthenware. It is these metals that give shining overglaze which is so unlike any other ceramic decoration, writes Alice R. Hollins in the Los Angeles Times.

The art of making lustre was revived or rather rediscovered in England late in the Eighteenth century. It was not so much a rediscovery of the process used in the Middle Ages as it was a new discovery by the English, for their method produced a sheen rather than an iridescence which distinguishes the Persian lustreware.

Practically all the potters made lustre in great quantities. Jugs, or pitchers, jars, bowls, mugs, goblets, cups, decorative ornaments, saltcellars, plates, creamers, sugar bowls, candlesticks and a host of other articles were made in this delightful ware.

Credit for having produced the earliest lustre is by some authorities given to Leeds, but the honor is more often given to the Wedgwood school which included such names as Wood, Mayer and others.

Many potters prominent in the Staffordshire district, Leeds, Swansea, Sunderland and other pottery centers of England are associated with the manufacture of lustre. It is usually classified according to the body of the ware and the form of decoration.

The lustre effects are due to the application of some metallic oxide glaze. A solution of platinum is used in the production of silver lustre, while the copper and gold or purple lustres are due to a form of copper. The color and texture are influenced by the strength of the oxide and the firing.

Name "Hobo" Once Given to the Migratory Worker

A "hobo" once was defined as a migratory worker, a tramp, or one who would work when he found an opportunity. The name was applied to the traveling and seasonal workers in the West. It originated shortly before 1880 and there are a number of possible explanations of its origin, says a writer in the Detroit News.

One is that the term arose from the friendly salutation of the road, "Ho, boy" or "Hello, boy." Another is that mail carriers on the Oregon Shore Line railroad in the eighties used to call "Ho, boy" when delivering mail. These mail carriers came to be called Hobos and later, those traveling along the tracks but not carrying mail were also called Hobos or Hobos.

Other derivations from "Hoboken, hobnob, hoe-boy, home bonus, homeward bound," as given in various authorities seem far-fetched. One authority's distinction between the tramp and hobo was: "The hobo works and wanders, the tramp dreams and wanders, the bum drinks and wanders."

"End of the Trail"

The life-size statue, "End of the Trail," made by James Earle Fraser, and awarded the gold medal at the Panama-Pacific International exposition in 1915 has been described as follows: "The end of the trail. The point of the warrior's spear has sunk to the ground. Absolute dejection, inconceivable weariness, complete exhaustion and hopeless despair are shown in every line and curve of the sculptured figures of the Indian and his tottering horse. The sufferings of generations, the hopeless struggles of four centuries, and the final fate of the proud race that once claimed a continent for its own, can be read at a glance, and coming generations of the conquering race will stand before this remarkable creation of Fraser's genius and be moved to pity and compassion."

Antaeus, Giant Wrestler

In Greek mythology Antaeus was a gigantic wrestler (son of Earth and Sea, Ge and Poseidon), whose strength was invincible so long as he touched the earth, and when he was lifted from it, his strength renewed by touching it again. It was Hercules who succeeded in killing this charmed giant, by lifting him from the earth and squeezing him to death.

Wild and Domestic Turkeys

It is not such a far cry from wild to domestic turkeys. Spanish conquerors found the first turkeys, closely related to the wild birds, in Mexico. They took turkeys back to Europe around 1500. In 90 years, by the time the Pilgrims came to America, turkeys were common in England. The birds were probably named for their cry of "turk, turk, turk."

Patheism

The name patheism has been used since about 1705 to denote any system of belief or speculation which includes the teaching, God is all, and all is God; in other words, the identification of the universe with God or of God with the universe. The term patheism is thought to have been used first by John Toland in the Eighteenth century.

At West Newton the travelers will spend two months building boats, then will journey down the Monongahela and Ohio rivers, to Marietta, O., where they will arrive about April 7.

Sullivan Strong For Police Order

Fire Chief Joseph N. Sullivan, appointed recently as the new chief of public safety in the city of Utica, laid emphasis that he was business in carrying out his assignment at a meeting in the police station assembly room. "I am commissioner of public safety," he said. "I have taken my job without strings. I may be here long, but while I'm here, I'm going to be boss. If I don't succeed and go down, I'll be after one hell of a battle." Mayor Carrou appointed Chief Sullivan to the new post. It was his first job. He has been in the police bureau. He has been in the police bureau of Utica, where he stands the famous Lord's Cricket ground. It was this club that first published a code of laws for the game, and from that time the Marylebone Cricket Club or the M. C. C., as it is more popularly called, has been the ruling authority of the game. The games played by the Hambledon club took place on Broadhalfpenny Down, and there is on this spot a monument denoting the spot where the matches were held.

Jury Found No Cause of Action

In the action brought in Supreme Court by Leslie Herring of Ulster Park against Sidney Mills of Orange county, for negligence, the jury this noon brought in a verdict of no cause of action. The case occupied the court all day Monday and most of this forenoon. Mr. Herring sued for $1,500 damages, for injuries to himself and his car, as the result of a collision between a car he was driving and a car driven by Mills. The accident happened at the intersection of 9-W and the Halmville school house road about 11 o'clock on the night of February 6, 1932.

NO DATE SET YET FOR MEETING OF SUPERVISORS

According to Frederick H. Stang, clerk of the Board of Supervisors, no date for the reorganization meeting of the board has been set as yet. The board will be called upon to select a new chairman in place of Frederick T. Fine, now county treasurer. A number of men have been named as possible choices, but the general opinion seems to be that either Robert A. Snyder of the town of Saugerties, or Howard Anderson of the town of Rochester will be selected to direct the proceedings of the board for the next two years. The supervisors will also be called upon to name a successor to the late J. Charles Snyder as a commissioner of the Board of Elections.

UTHERLAND RETIRES WITH SMILE TODAY

Washington, Jan. 13. (AP)—Justice George Sutherland went to the Supreme Court bench into retirement with a smile for the man whom President Roosevelt asked for his place—Solicitor General Stanley Reed. It was a quiet and almost unnoticed departure. The tall, bald solicitor general arrived in the crowded court room 10 minutes before noon Tuesday and took his seat, as usual, in front of the bench. Dozens of lawyers pressed his hand in congratulation. One of the first was Senator Milton (D., N.Y.), who had received considerable mention as a possible nominee.

Early Cricket Players Wore Top Hats on Field

Many years ago, during the reign of Queen Anne, the authorities tried to put down cricket by law, but the judges of the king's bench decided in favor of the game being allowed to continue, according to a writer in the Montreal Herald. It appears that at the beginning of the eighteenth century cricket became the subject of much gambling. This alarmed the authorities so much that they tried to stop the game altogether. Cricket is believed to have been played as far back as the Twelfth and Thirteenth centuries. The actual home of club cricket is at a place called Hambledon, in Hampshire. Here a club was first formed in the year 1750 and continued to flourish until 1791. In those days all the players played in top hats. In 1787 the Marylebone club was formed, which 40 years later took up its quarters at St. John's Wood, in London, where stands the famous Lord's Cricket ground. It was this club that first published a code of laws for the game, and from that time the Marylebone Cricket Club or the M. C. C., as it is more popularly called, has been the ruling authority of the game. The games played by the Hambledon club took place on Broadhalfpenny Down, and there is on this spot a monument denoting the spot where the matches were held.

Early Records of Irish Note Their Advancement

Assertion that Ireland was once known as the "Island of Saints and Scholars," and that at one time most of the colleges and universities of Europe were located in Ireland may be based on the following information, taken from an encyclopedia. "The first probable records of the Irish people show that for the times they were advanced in civilization. The ancient bards were called 'Flechas' or 'Feadanas,' which means philosophers. Caesar, in his 'Gallic Wars,' mentions their advancement. In the reign of Eochy the First, more than 1,000 B. C., men of learning, eminent scholars, were by law ranked next to royalty. A repose from strife, enjoyed by Ireland at a time when southern Europe was overrun by the Germanic hordes, favored the progress of learning. The schools and monasteries founded by St. Patrick in the fifth century became the centers from which went forth many scholars; even as early as the sixth century Ireland became the seat of western learning. Its monasteries were the schools from which missionaries proceeded throughout continental Europe. In the eighth and ninth centuries the scholars of Ireland were among the most distinguished at the courts of the kings, especially at that of Charlemagne."

Greeks Familiar With Electricity

The ancient Greeks, centuries before the Christian era, appear to have known some of the facts concerning frictional electricity. Thales of Miletus knew that amber after being rubbed acquired the property of attracting light objects and Theophrastus, in his treatise, "On Gems," mentions that such power is not peculiar to amber alone. No definite scientific information was acquired, however, until the close of the sixteenth century, when William Gilbert, an English physician, published his great work, "De Magnete." He has been called the "father of electricity." In his book he used for the first time such terms as "electric force" and "electric attraction," and he clearly distinguished between magnetic and electric action. He was only one of the many discoverers of principles that led to the development of practical uses for electricity.

Woods Have Odd Names

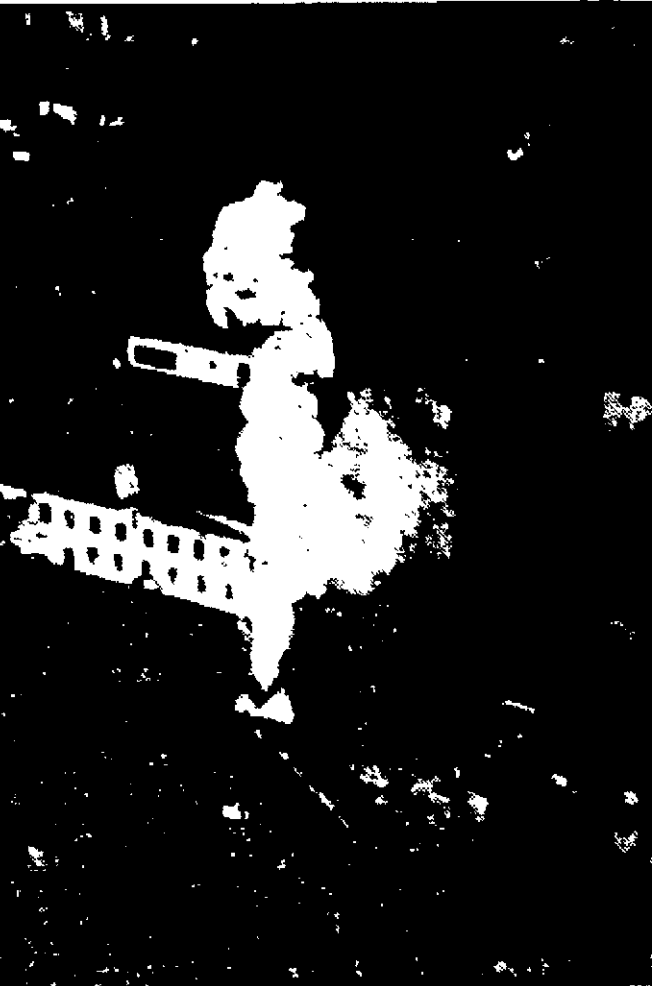

Have you any juglans nigra in your home? You have if you possess anything made of so-called "black" walnut. The tongue-twister is the botanical name. Juglans californica is the trick title for walnut grown on the Pacific coast, as you might guess. Circassian walnut, found in Europe and Asia, does business under the technical moniker juglans nigra. Oak is playfully dubbed by the scientific hosts as quercus alba, quercus rubra and quercus robur, according to color. Other jawbreakers include: Gumwood (liquidambar styraciflua) and zebra wood from West Africa (distemonanthus benthamianus). In fact, every kind of wood has its tantalizing scientific tax.

Seeks $10,000 for New Paltz Crash

Before Justice Schirick adjourned Supreme Court for the noon recess today a jury was selected to hear evidence in actions brought by Rowland Johnson, by guardian and by his father, Ralph Johnson, against Raymond DuBois.

The companion actions arise out of an accident which took place at the intersection of Main and Prospect streets in the village of New Paltz at about 5 o'clock on the afternoon of November 19, 1932, in which the bicycle on which the young Johnson was riding was struck by an automobile driven by Raymond DuBois.

The complaint alleges that Johnson, who was 13 years old at the time, received serious fractures of both jaws, had seven teeth knocked out and was otherwise injured, sustaining severe permanent injuries for which damages to the amount of $10,000 are asked.

Ralph Johnson, his father, who is superintendent of schools for the Southern Ulster District, also sues for $1,000 damages which include loss of services, doctors' bills and cost of treatment, etc. The plaintiffs are represented by N. LeVan Haver, with Peter H. Harp of Counsel. Stanley R. Johnson appears for the defendant in the actions.

Informed that a few members of his congregation at St. Mary's Episcopal Cathedral were reported to be contemplating abstinence from meat and some other foods as an expression of faith in the dean, he declared: "I don't know that any of my parishioners are doing such a thing. WHAT HUSBAND HAS BEEN SHOUTING FOR JOY ABOUT HIS WIFE'S COOKING THESE LAST FEW WEEKS?

IT'S NO SECRET! Every day he's been bragging of the tastiness of those home-cooked meals to all his friends. And how he struts when he lets them know what a thrifty shopper the little woman is!

THE FACT IS, those dinners taste so good just because his wife knows how to food-shop so inexpensively. She's learned to stretch the family grocery budget a good deal further by reading the Food Ads in The Daily Freeman before she markets. She knows which choice cuts of meat are selling for less and where to buy them; she knows where she can get fresh vegetables and choice, ripe fruits at lower prices. She buys better foods and actually spends less than many of her friends do; and she herself admits that half the success of a well-prepared meal is decided by the tenderness, flavor and downright goodness you get with the foods in the first place.

YOU, TOO, can serve better meals for less money if you shop the Food Ads in The Daily Freeman regularly. Check the values in them every day. READ FIRST—THEN BUY!

DiMaggio Ready To Talk Business

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—Joe DiMaggio, who, without proclaiming himself a holdout, has started more discussion over his 1938 salary than any other major league ball player, is back in the town to be stuffed at baseball and to dicker with the New York Yankees.

DiMaggio, recently voted the "player of the year" by New York baseball writers, said he ought to be "entitled to a substantial increase" in salary. He vigorously denied reports that he already had come to terms with the Yankees.

DiMaggio declined to name any specific salary he would ask. A second-year man with the ranks last season, and a phenomenal one, he is understood to have received $15,000.

Empire of Silence

Looking around on the noisy insanity of the world, words with little meaning actions with little worth, one lives to reflect on the great empire of silence. The noble, there, each in his department, silently thinking, silently working, whom no morning newspaper makes mention of. They are the salt of the earth. A country that has none, or few of these, is in a bad way. . . . We for us if we have nothing but what we can show or speak. Silence, the great empire of silence, higher than the stars deeper than the kingdoms of death! It alone is great; all else is small.—Thomas Carlyle.

Indiana Used China Brier

The China brier, which grows in Florida, was used by the Seminole Indians to prepare a dish called bontie, or contee, which was made from the starchy roots of the China brier. The roots were chopped up and pounded in a mortar. Then this meal was mixed with water and strained through a basket. The sediment, when dry, was a red meal. This meal was mixed with honey and warm water. It jelled as it cooled and was eaten with corn bread or cake.

It will be worth all that money for Congress to go and think things over.

Ross Holds Out For More Money

Chicago, Jan. 18 (AP).—The palms of the fists owned and operated by Jack Carroll, Australia's fistie pride, are itching anew for a shot at Barney Ross, world's welterweight champion. . . . Sam Plan, co-manager of Ross, received a cable today making a new offer of $40,000, plus $5,000 for expenses, for Ross to meet the Australian challenger in a 15-round bout for the crown in Sydney April 15. . . . Plan, however, is holding out for $45,000, plus $7,000 for expenses, making a neat total of $52,000.

Farr Impressive For Friday Bout

New York, Jan. 18 (AP).—The new and reputedly sweet-tempered Tommy Farr has in the past month worked himself into grand shape for his 10-round tilt with Jimmie Braddock Friday night at the Garden. . . . A visit to the Welshman's camp at Summit, N. J., reveals an impressive looking fighter, a far cry from the battered, bleeding wreck that sat and repeated "I did my best" after Joe Louis finished with him at the Yankee Stadium last summer. . . . Farr thinks he'll be world champion before he's 25. He's 23 now.

Former Turkish Society Woman Now Mothers Ranking Boxers

By DILLON GRAHAM.

Feature Service Writer.

Summit, N. J.—Madame Hranoush Bey hasn't been fazed by anything since the time the French fighters demanded lobster salad for breakfast.

Mme. Bey operates a boxers' training camp in the Jersey hills west of Newark. For 18 years she's been mothering broods of bruising bellers. She's had all nationalities and races, kindly gentlemen and surly brutes and she thinks it is interesting watching their condition to wallop the daylight out of their fellow men. Her life story is a fantastic tale. She came from Constantinople in 1898, the bride of Sidky Bey, Turkish diplomat. Mme. Bey quickly captivated Washington society. She danced at the White House. She lived gaily in the capital's diplomatic whirl. . . . Mme. Bey had a strong and beautiful voice. She sang in concerts and her mezzo-soprano notes were heard in Carnegie Hall. Stately in her Paris gowns, she graced Fifth avenue drawing rooms. . . . Then came the World War and her husband resigned rather than accept an appointment to Berlin. He flourished in business for several years then disaster struck and the couple retired to their 29 acres in the Jersey highlands. . . . There was little money and society folks couldn't farm, so the Beys accepted Freddie Welsh's offer to take over his nearby health farm. Welsh had been unable to attract customers. . . . Mme. Bey knew nothing about boxing or cooking, but she read books on cooking, diets and boxing. Finally, the fighters started coming, and when Welsh saw the success he wanted to take charge again. So Mme. Bey tramped back to her acres and behind her

With Benny Bass playing a sensational game, and all the rest of the Colonials doing their share, Kingston's American League quintet won at Binghamton, Monday night, 43-35.

Pleased with the showing his cagers made, Pop Morgenweck said the Jersey Reds will have no easy time of it with the Colonials Wednesday night when they invade the municipal auditorium.

Regarding his starters for the tilt with the first half champions of the loop, however, Morgie was non-committal although he indicated that Phil Rabin, Tiny Hearn, and Corky Stanton are the only three sure of being in there for the opening whistle. . . . Mike Perkel, House of David sensation, Max Posnack and Benny Bass, recently with the Yankees and Jimmy Brown will be ready to fill out the lineup. . . . "Muggsy" Miller probably will call on his regulars to begin the duel, Anderson, who is said to be sufficiently recovered from an injury to play; and Moe Spahn in the fore court; Al Benson, center and Paulie Adams and "Red" Michelotti, guards.

Just how Al Benson will behave under the new test of rules on the center tap remains to be seen. However, it is not likely that he will try his usual tactics for fear of being chastised by Col. Hearn, who floored him with a sizzling right to the jaw the last time the Reds were here. . . . In the preliminary the Clinton Avenue Aces will play the Coeymans Faculty Five.

Big Ten Cage Race Is in Whirl

Chicago, Jan. 18 (AP).—The Big Ten basketball title race had the "dopesters" reeling today.

With the season almost at the halfway mark, the championship fight shaped up as a nine-team affair, with only Chicago's Maroons reasonably rated out of the running. They've lost three games and won none.

Last night's four-game program wound up with blots on the records of two clubs previously unbeaten—Northwestern and Michigan. Northwestern took its first loss in five games 37 to 26, at the hands of Purdue, which won as Jewell Young made two "stealer" shots in the closing minutes to crack the Wildcat morale. The victory was Purdue's third in four starts and moved the Boilemakers into a tie for second place with Michigan, which muffed a chance to displace Northwestern as pace-setter by bowing to Wisconsin 33 to 30.

Minnesota won its first game from Illinois, the team which slumped 19-37 honors, with the Halftime score was 10-16 but the Gophers, with Gordon Addington setting their pace, pulled away to win handily, 41 to 23. As Illinois handed Purdue its only defeat, Minnesota, ninth in the standings, now can be definitely figured still in the battle for top honors. . . . Iowa hung up its second win at the expense of Indiana's strong team, 36 to 32.

The Redeemer, Port Ewen and Comforter lives scored victories to inaugurate the second half of the Church Basketball League on the Y. M. C. A. court Monday night.

A sensational long shot by Powerhouse Pete Schline from more than three-quarters the length of the court, enabled the Redeemers to score their sixth straight victory at the expense of the newly organized Presbyterians, 23-21. The whistle blew to end the game as Schline's last second field was in the air and the crowd roared as Pete's shot drilled the net.

The Presbyterians flashed good form to lead the Redeemers 11-10 at the half and the score was tied at 21 all when Schline caged his winning deuce. Herb Van Deusen of the Presbyterians led the scorers with eight points while Bruce, Schline and Port had seven apiece for the Redeemers.

The Port Ewen quintet came from behind to hand Clinton Avenue a 13-14 defeat in the second game. The Clintons led 8-7 at the intermission and the score was tied at 14 all when the boys from across the creek clinched the game with five consecutive markers. Bing Van Eeten and Gog have scored seven points apiece to lead the clubs.

The Irish first half champions met defeat in the last contest at the hands of the Comforter, 25-13. Clicking in fine style the Comforters led 9-6 at the half and widened their margin after the recess. Mayskens and Rhymers scored 9 and 7 points, respectively for the Comforters. Carping was high for the losers with two fields.

An important meeting of the Board of Managers will be held tonight at the "Y." All managers are urged to attend.

HAGUE WON'T TAKE SENATE SEAT GIFT

Mayor Frank Hague (left) of Jersey City, N. J., shown with Governor-elect A. Harry Moore after Hague declined Moore's offer of the latter's U. S. Senate seat as a birthday gift. Employers May Deduct Old Age Tax in Returns

Importance was attached today by John Form, manager of the Kingston Field Office of the Social Security Board, to a release of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, which stated:

"Tax paid by employers under the old-age benefit and unemployment insurance laws of the Federal Security Act are deductible from income tax payments. Employees are not permitted to deduct taxes paid them under the old-age benefit title, since the tax on employee is itself an income tax. When an employer assumes the employee's share of the social security tax he may deduct the additional sum as a business expense."

"To eliminate widespread confusion, it was emphasized that taxes levied under the old-age benefit section would remain at 1 per cent during 1938 and 1939 for both employers and employees. The Federal unemployment insurance tax, which is paid by employers of eight or more persons in covered industries, goes up from 2 to 3 per cent in 1938."

Orizaba, Veracruz State, Mexico, Jan. 18 (AP).—A 24-hour general strike, which tied up virtually every key industry in Veracruz State and caused at least eight deaths in interunion rioting, ended at midnight last night. The walkout was called by the regional Federation of Workers and Peasants (F. R. O. C.) in protest against court delays in deciding whether F. R. O. C. or the regional Confederation of Mexican Workers (C. R. O. M.) should represent employees of local cotton mills.

Chinese Thrusts Put Japanese on Defence at Tsinfu

Shanghai, Jan. 18 (AP).—Chinese counter-thrusts put Japanese armies on the defensive today in two important zones of their widespread warfare—Along the Tientsin-Pukow railway north of Nanking and in the Hangchow area, 125 miles southwest of Shanghai. Japanese sources admitted they had been forced into defensive positions in those areas.

Strong Chinese units approximately 30 miles north of Nanking were attempting to cut the Tientsin-Pukow line behind a Japanese column which had advanced from the conquered Chinese capital as part of a two-way thrust against Suchow, key junction on the Lunghai railway, China's East-West lifeline.

Chinese told of additional successes in South Shantung today. They asserted that Tsining, 120 miles south of Tsinan, was "entirely in our hands" and added that "a decisive battle is imminent."

The Japanese spokesman asserted, however, that Japanese forces had retained possession of Tsining, and that the detachment advancing south along the Tientsin-Pukow railway had gained ground in a new offensive.

Japanese forces, the spokesman said, had completed occupation of the Shantung Province railway linking Tsinan and Tsin-tao, the principal seaport.

Heavy fighting was in progress in the Hangchow area, where Japanese apparently had been balked in their attempt to drive inland from the seaport.

Japanese said they had no information as to the reported capture of Chiwan-sha, across the Whangpoo river from Shanghai by Chinese troops, but conceded that "it is possible." River traffic between Shanghai and the Pootung industrial area across the Whangpoo was halted by Japanese as a "temporary necessity."

Meanwhile thousands of Yunnan troops from China's southern interior massed in Nanchang for a defense against any Japanese land attack against Hankow, Yangtze river port 150 miles to the northwest and one of China's temporary capitals.

The Yunnan mountaineers were armed and equipped with supplies brought in through French Indo-China. They were Poyang Lake defenses above Nanchang. The extensive Nanchang airforce which included at least 100 Russian-built planes and as many Russian airmen was protected by the defense system.
